SUCCESSFUL PRACTICE OF B.W. & F. CLUB

Good Turn Out at the Union
Last Night.

PRACTICE HOURS FIXED.

Geo. Smith, of Westmount High School, New Instructor of the B. W. & F. Club.

One of the most hopeful signs of the times was the highly successful wrestling practice held last night under the auspices of the Boxing, Wrestling Club. The revival of this well-known organization means that one more activity of prime importance has been resuscitated at old McGill. Under the able guidance of Geo. Smith, of the Westmount High School, and teacher of wrestling and boxing for over ten years at McGill in pre-war times, the practice proceeded amid much enthusiasm. Mr. Smith first explained the scientific basis and rudiments of the art and everyone had a try at their application. The twenty or more men doing their best to learn every point brought forward was certainly a very encouraging sight for the future prosperity of the club.

The wrestling room of the Union is ideal in every respect, good mats and lighting with luxurious showers to cool off the heated enthusiasts.

The sports which are a function of the B. W. & F., are especially suited for men at McGill where the long winter and lectures prevents many outdoor sports to be practicable.

In past years McGill has won many trophies against Toronto and other organizations and there is no doubt that if the turn out last night is prophetic, the University will be represented next year with a winning team.

The only requisite in the way of costume is an old pair of trousers, a pair of running or gym shoes, and five cents for a towel and soap. Instruction is given to all classes and weights and it is especially desirable to have beginners attend in order to train and instruct them properly from the very start of their career either in boxing or wrestling.

After Christmas when the gymnasium work will probably be compulsory, arrangements will be made to exempt those students from "gym" work who take up the manly art of self-defence.

The following hours for practices have been provisionally appointed but will be changed if future circumstances demand it. Wrestling on Monday nights from 7.30 to 8.30 and Wednesday nights from 8.30 to 9.30. Boxing on Wednesday nights from 7.30 to 8.30 and Friday nights from 7.30 to 8.30. If enough interest is shown in fencing definite hours and an instructor will also be arranged for by the men interested in this phase of the work. It is essential that every man turn out on time as the course is concentrated as much as possible and much valuable information may be lost by procrastination.

Let us hope everyone interested will make it his duty for his own good to attend every practice as regularly as possible.

CONSERVATORIUM CONCERT.

The director of the Conservatorium of Music, Mr. H. C. Perrin, has kindly offered fifty tickets for the Orchestral Concert, on Thursday evening, to students who are especially interested in music. The tickets, which are provided free of charge to students, are in the hands of Ross Laing, president of the Students' Council, and students desiring to hear a good concert of high class music may obtain them from him any day between 5 and 6 p.m. Get yours early, as the number is limited to fifty.

GREAT MEN; GREAT EATERS.

The great majority of famous men have been huge eaters, and big brain workers with small appetites have always been noted as being exceptional. Lloyd George, M. Clemenceau, the French premier; Sir Douglas Haig and President Wilson, to name only a few of the famous leaders and thinkers of the day, all have excellent appetites, and all think better after a good meal.

The great empire builder, Cecil Rhodes, ate far in excess of the average man. Balzac, the famous French author, thought nothing of eating 12 mutton cutlets and a dozen or so oysters at a meal. Sir H. Rider Haggard is a believer in substantial meals, as is G. K. Chesterton.

Hindenburg and Ludendorff, the two German leaders, both are notorious for being absolute gluttons over their food, as was the famous of all German leaders, Bismarck. Bismarck, indeed, had an absolutely phenomenal appetite, regularly eating meals which would satisfy three ordinary men.—Detroit News.

News has just arrived from his mother of the death, while on active service, of Alfred Edward Beckwith, Med. '20.
Beckwith was born at Victoria, B.C., and was in the class of Med. '20. In April, 1917, he enlisted with the second draft of the McGill Siege Battery, recruited in McGill by Sir Stophard Brunton. In July of that year he proceeded overseas, and in September he had the misfortune to break his ankle, and was admitted to the military hospital at Bexhill. In February, 1918, he was transferred to the navy because of lameness, and after he had been advised that medical students were greatly needed at that time on His Majesty's ships. He was appointed Surgeon-Probationer on H.M.S. "Orion," but unfortunately he was taken ill and died of pneumonia and heart failure after an illness of ten days.
His burial took place in Haslar Naval Cemetery, and he was buried with full naval honours, Canadian surgeon-probationers acting as pallbearers, and they also placed wreaths on his grave.
Beckwith had quite a large circle of friends among McGill students, both in Medicine and Science, having been in both Science '17 and Medicine '20. He was quite active in various student activities, holding office in the Y.M.C.A., Western Club and Mandolin Club, and taking an active part in University life generally.

ENGLISH PREVAILS.

English is threatening to outstrip French as the universal language—and is threatening to do it on French territory. To learn English has become the national vogue to-day in France. The presence on French soil of so many millions of Anglo-Saxon soldiers has given rise to a sudden desire among all classes to speak English. When one remembers the traditional antagonism and hostility of the French toward speaking any other language but the French, the change is hardly less than a phenomenon.

In order to encourage and promote literary activity among the students, McMaster University has announced a Prize Story Competition. The "Monthly" Board offers five dollars, three dollars and two dollars as first, second and third prize, respectively.

VOLUNTEERS WANTED FOR ORCHESTRA

Next Rehearsal on Thursday Night at Strathcona Hall.

OUTLOOK IS PROMISING.

Appeal Made for Cornet, Horn and Trombone Players.

Those who attended the first rehearsal of the McGill Students' Orchestra, last Friday, evidently enjoyed themselves, for they expressed disappointment in no uncertain manner when the seance was declared at an end. This was very encouraging.

In point of numbers, too, the meeting was not disappointing, although the attendance fell slightly below that at the inauguration meeting. This, however, is attributable, to some extent at least, to the fact that several attractive social events took place the same evening, and a better attendance is looked for at the next practice, which will be held in Strathcona Hall, on Thursday, December 19, at 7 p.m.

To be worthy of the name "Orchestra," we must have a greater variety of instruments. We already have the beginnings of a very promising string section, although another viola and another 'cello would give better balance and would be very welcome. Someone who can play the bass is needed, too. Anyone volunteering to fill this last vacancy will be greeted with shouts of joy and provided with an instrument gratis. It is confidently expected that these deficiencies among the strings will soon be rectified.

As regards the wood-wind, brass and percussion families, the outlook is not so promising, as was anticipated. It is always difficult to find amateurs who play these instruments. Clarinets, cornets, horns, a trombone and drums are urgently required. If there should be a stray oboe, bassoon or tuba floating about College, so much the better.

Any student who can play any of the instruments enumerated above, and who has not already joined, is earnestly requested to contribute his share towards the success of the Orchestra by turning out to the rehearsal on Thursday. If this is impossible, at least let us know of your willingness to join by communicating with the manager, A. P. Grigg, Law '21.

There must be many students in the different faculties who have some knowledge of the various instruments used by the Orchestra, and they are urged to come forward and show what they can do. It is a purely amateur orchestra, so no one should be afraid of displaying their talents, and by practising consistently with the orchestra each man is likely to find benefit and increase his proficiency. Come forward, men, and make things go, as far as the Orchestra is concerned.

MANDOLIN CLUB HELD PRACTICE LAST NIGHT

Membership Increases at Every Meeting.

The weekly practice of the Mandolin Club was held as usual last night at Peate's Studio. The old pieces were played even better than ever and some new ones were tried over. The Director is choosing the catchy tunes that only a mandolin can properly interpret. One such piece is "You're in style when you're Wearing a Smile" which will no doubt be played in public soon.

So far the club has given two public concerts and has been asked to give more. Some invitations have had to be refused because too short notice was given.

As the club only meets once a week requests for its services should be sent in as early as possible to the officers of the club in order that they may be able to notify the members of the club in good time.

The outlook for this year seems particularly bright, especially as new men continue to come in. These men are welcome and any more who can play are invited.

You cannot tell how well you may eventually be able to play until you try. The next practice will be held on January 6th, 1919, and all who are interested are asked to plan ahead in order to take advantage of these practices.

ARE YOU A HUMIDOR?

Most of us know the appearance and use of a humidor, even though we do not happen to be smokers. That useful article has been many times blessed by the enjoyer of the "weed," for without it he would be compelled to fill his beloved pipe with a substance resembling ancient sawdust repellent alike to touch and taste.

There is a question that we should like to have our readers ask themselves to-day. It is this, "Am I a humidor or do I represent the battered sawdust container with which men were forced to be content before such things as humidors existed?" It is a question which is particularly pertinent in the environment of a College, and we believe that every Student should keep it constantly before his mind.

The danger of allowing one's thoughts to become desiccated to such a degree that all his mental equipment, however complete it might have been when first collected, passes for nothing in the swiftly-moving life around him, is a real one, and it threatens us peculiarly in these days of formation of character. How often are we treated to the sad spectacle of some Student who has taken an honours course at the University, and who has studied under the best professors of his day with the most favourable conditions working in his favour,—how often do we see such a man making a display of his narrowness of outlook and incapacity for assimilation of new truth?

We may all take a lesson from the humble humidor. It should be part of our training at the University to keep the strictest watch upon ourselves and be prompt to observe and check the first signs of obfuscation, something that is painfully common. If there is any lesson that may be gathered from the great struggle that has only just concluded, it is that the man who is not ready to adapt his mind and his methods of using it to the age in which he lives is bound by an inflexible law to "go under"; he pronounces his own condemnation when he allows his mental apparatus to go out of date. There is no need for him to be an iconoclast, ever jeering at what he cannot understand. He need simply keep abreast of the times.

So don't let the furnishings of your mind get dry and dusty when you are yet in the formative period, fellow Student! Every time you bring out the glass container where you keep your favourite mixture of the herb sacred to My Lady Nicotine make a mental comparison of the contents with your own brain and be sure you do not err on the side of leniency to yourself.

EDITORIAL NOTE.

The successful and encouraging practice held by the "B. W. and F." last night will come as good news to the many Students who are deeply interested in the activity of this club, which before the war was one of the most important of the minor societies at the college. It was, of course, only to be expected that with the renewal of athletics on a large scale the boxers and wrestlers should once again come into their own. But as the work of reconstruction always calls for a good deal of hard work and application on the part of somebody, and a modicum of the right spirit on the part of a considerable number, it is gratifying to learn that the club has "got off to a flying start." May this year be a prosperous one marking the beginning of a new era of full activity after the depression of the last four years.

How They Died

Major F. T. Lucas.

Such exceptional bravery was exhibited by Major Frederick Travers Lucas, Sci. '04, in the action in which he fell on March 1, 1917, that not only was he recommended for the Victoria Cross, but also, at an armistice later, the German commander on the front praised his coolness and courage and expressed his admiration of such gallant conduct.

Major Lucas was born in Hamilton, Ontario, on February 20, 1883, the son of the late R. A. Lucas and of Mrs. Lucas, "Rowanhurst." He was educated at Trinity College School, Port Hope, Ont., at the Royal Military College, Kingston, where he was B.S.M., and from which he graduated in third place in 1903, and at McGill, where he took the degree of B.Sc. in Civil Engineering in 1904. After graduation, Major Lucas served as engineer for the Grand Trunk Pacific docks at Seattle, Wash., at Vancouver and at Victoria. He was later surveyor on the Prince Rupert townsite and engineer in charge of the construction of the Grand Trunk Pacific terminals at Prince Rupert.

In May, 1915, Major Lucas became attached as a Lieutenant to the 68th, Earl Grey's Own Rifles (Militia), and in the following month he enlisted for overseas service in the 54th Kootenay Battalion, at Vernon, B.C. In November, 1915, he went overseas, being stationed at Bramshott Camp until August, 1916, when he was sent to France. On October 26, 1916, Major Lucas was wounded at Regina Trench and evacuated to the 4th London General Hospital. On January 26, 1917, having recovered from his wounds, he rejoined the 54th in France, and served with it until killed in action at Vimy, on March 1, 1917.

Major Lucas was a member of the McGill Chapter, Zeta Psi Fraternity, of the Western Club, Vancouver, B.C., the Pioneer Club, Prince Rupert, and of the Prince Rupert Club, Prince Rupert. At the Royal Military College and at McGill he won many academic honours, and was also well known as an athlete, especially as an international cricketer.

Details of Major Lucas' death show that he was a particularly gallant officer. Capt. T. E. S. Taylor, adjutant of the battalion, says:—

"I was up in the front line trenches on the night of the attack, and was talking to Major Lucas a few minutes before he went into it. He led his men with the utmost gallantry in this very fierce attack, and was twice wounded and continued to lead his men until shot dead at the German wire. His whole conduct in this action was so heroic that the German commander opposite to us sent a special message of condolence in the loss of this fine officer and praised his coolness and courage. I add also that our commanding officer has recommended him for the V.C. and I hope the honour so bravely earned may be granted. I personally saw his body brought in and it was buried, together with our Colonel and other officers who fell in this action, at the Military cemetery at Villers-au-Bois."

Touching upon the armistice which was arranged between the German and Canadian commanders in order that the dead and wounded might be removed from the field of the attack, Sergt. P. I. Palmer, of the 102nd Battalion writes: "The boys and officers of the battalions are very loud in their praise of the treatment accorded them by the Germans during the armistice, and say they acted like perfect gentlemen throughout; and the German officers were very loud in their praise of Major Lucas. They asked all kinds of questions about him, if he were married, etc., and said it was a shame to have such a man killed. Apparently he was shot and knocked down three or four times, and every time got up and continued on over until he fell dead over the wires at the German trenches. Every time there was a lull in the conversation, the German officers would refer to Major Lucas and say what a fine man he was."

ILLITERACY.

Bulletin XV of the Dominion Census of 1911 gives the educational status of the people and the usual literacy tables. When the literacy of the whole population 5 years of age and over is considered, Quebec does not show up too badly; her percent of illiteracy was 12.69, which is higher than that of Ontario, Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia and British Columbia, but less than that of New Brunswick, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

preciated three-fold. By-the-way, Arnold Branch's ship is lying near us, and he and I have attended some clinics at the Royal Infirmary in Edinburgh during the last week. You see, we are now having it easy since we brought the German fleet in. That was indeed the most wonderful honour and experience I shall ever hope to have, and I shall tell you about it some time.

McGill Graduate Sleeps In The Bed Once Occupied by The "All-Highest" Others Kissing Their Way to Germany

Capt. W. A. I. Anglin, M.C., Arch '16, Writes of Joy of Inhabitants at Release from German Rule and of Embarrassment (?) of Canadians at Being Embraced by Those for Whose Deliverance They Have Fought—Military Cross for Late Lieut. F. J. Longworth and for Lieut. J. G. Nicholson and D.C.M. for Corporal J. Harry Macfarlane—K. P. Tsolainos Goes to the Peace Conference.

Sleeping in beds which were once occupied by now decadent royalty is getting to be a habit with McGill men. Lieutenant-Colonel "Dave" Whitton, Med. '98, now officer commanding the hospital ship, Araguaya, sleeps in the bed on the vessel wherein reposed Heir Hohenzollern at the time of the Kiel Canal regatta in 1911. Dr. Whitton is not worrying very much about it, although he confesses to having dreamt one night that he was choking the world's greatest criminal to death. Of somewhat lesser note is the bed in which Capt. Arthur Anglin, M.C., Arch. '16, slept at Mons after November 11. Of this he writes:

"By the way, my room at the Judge's was the one occupied by Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria, when he had his headquarters here. Madame told me there was a great difference in the way he demanded his room and larded over them in the house and my humble entrance. They find it very strange to have us insist that they go through a doorway first."

According to Capt. Anglin, who left Montreal as a subaltern in No. 10 (McGill) Siege Battery, the Canadians were forced to kiss their way ahead in the days prior to the armistice. Here is what he has to say:

"Well, here I am back in sunny France again and sitting before a fire in the tower room of a chateau. From the window one can see some scratches in the ground where the contemplatives dug themselves in for a time in the retreat of 1914. It is now the Boches' turn to scramble home and our boys are spending this Sunday afternoon (November 10) pushing him out of Mons.

"Near here is the chateau, which was the old seat of the Count de Dury. The present Count was in yesterday to tell us not to fire on it if it could be helped; but I am afraid the Boche has done more damage than any shells would do. He loots every place he pierces through and leaves the civilians quite destitute. However, there are large fields of vegetables and today two cows went down the road led by a girl. It is very strange to have women and children in the battle area. They retire into the cellars while the battle is passing over their heads, and then come out and decorate the lawns with Belgian flags as our patrols enter."

Who Wouldn't Be a Soldier?

"The men have a very embarrassing time, for every woman must kiss every man before he can go to further conquests. The Major and I went up yesterday in the car and were the first to enter the town, where they were embraced right and left and given a reception at the Town Hall by the Mairie. But the principal interest to them, I am sorry to say, was a pretty Belgian nurse, a V.A.D., who kissed them each twice and nearly hugged their heads off.

"Of course, they say they couldn't help themselves, which was hardly a sufficient excuse. The civilians were very anxious that they should come to their houses and have a drink of beer, and one brought a bottle out and had it half emptied into—neck before he knew what happened. They were presented with a big Belgian flag and thereon drove around with flying colours.

"The front line is no longer a trench now. The infantry make themselves comfortable between sheets over night and are up by dawn to push on to the next billet. The Hun has no stomach left for fighting and his morale is at the lowest ebb.

"We took a letter off a Boche officer, the other day, which read, in part:

"Now that they have much considerable military advantage, it is no joke being continually engaged in stubborn defensive operations, and having continually to give way before his superiority. The Allies have too many machines, too much artillery and too many tanks. There is no standing against it. Their artillery is absolutely maddening."

In a later letter written from Mons, Capt. A. Anglin says:

"We are no longer 'Somewhere in France,' and you will notice that the censorship has been lifted and we can write home as if we were tourists. In fact, we certainly will be tourists for the next couple of months, for the Canadian Corps is one of those assigned to the task of holding Germany down for a time until she cools off. We start travelling in a few days and will proceed by easy stages to the Rhine, spending Christmas in Germany instead of at home.

"In my last letter I spoke of our boys spending Sunday afternoon pushing into Mons, and, as you know by now, that at dawn on the 11th the infantry were advancing east of the city. On the cessation of hostilities they were about five or six miles east of Mons—beginning with the retreat in 1914 and ending with our triumphal entry—and the Canadians had the first honours. This was due, largely, to the foresight of General Currie, who anticipated big things and got us put into this front starting at Arras.

Great Reception at Mons.

"Our reception at Mons was, of course, magnificent and it was a gala day all day. Every ten minutes they must tell you how relieved they are to be rid of the Huns. Their houses were pillaged and their food prices sent sky high. And four years of it! No wonder they cannot realize that they are free!

"I have had the good luck to be billeted at the house of the Judge of the town (50,000 population). They have taken me in as a guest and are very upset because I do not take my meals with them. His wife is charming and speaks English very well. They have no children, but, nevertheless, have already had us all (the Major, Capt. Napier, Higgins and myself) for an evening to play bridge with some young ladies, who are daughters of the bank president here. A most delightful evening, I assure you. The girls are wonderful musicians and we had some dancing to finish off with."

Capt. Anglin discreetly avoids any reference to his personal experiences. Donald MacMaster, K.C., M.P., Law '71, is again a candidate for election to the British Parliament. He is being opposed by a Labour candidate.

Lieuts. Ian A. Ross, Arts '18, and John H. Molson, Arts '19, taken prisoner together on October 10, have both been repatriated.

A. M. McCrimmon, Arts '16, has been elected president of the McGill Students' Union.

Posthumous recognition of the gallantry of Lieut. Frederick J. Longworth, Agr. '17, who died of wounds on November 10, has come with the award to him of the Military Cross. Lieut. Longworth was serving with the 38th Battery, C.F.A.

Lieut. J. Gordon Nicholson, Arts '16, is also gazetted for the Military Cross. Lieut. Nicholson left as a private in one of the University companies, and won his commission in the field. He has been with the 38th Battalion for some time and has been wounded. Capt. W. C. Nicholson, Arts '13, Law '15, M.C., D.S.O., is a brother. They are sons of J. A. Nicholson, Arts '87, Registrar of the University.

Gallant service in the field has won for Corp. J. Harry Macfarlane, Arts '17, the Distinguished Conduct Medal, according to advices received by his father, J. C. Macfarlane, 4275 Dorchester Street West. Corp. Macfarlane went overseas in February, 1916, with No. 9 Canadian Field Ambulance and has been wounded. A brother was killed in action in 1916. Corp. Macfarlane was with the class of '16 at the University, but was granted his degree in absentia in 1917.

Captain C. C. Gurd, Arts '93, Med. '97, and Corp. G. W. Bourke, Arts '17, returned to Canada on the hospital ship Araguaya.

G. R. Lighthall, Law '82, whose interest in aviation is well-known, was recently a member of a deputation which waited upon members of the Cabinet at Ottawa, urging the commercial development of aviation in Canada.

The death occurred at Sherbrooke, Que., on December 10, of Henry J. Duffett, Arts '83, Law '85, Recorder of the city. He had practised law there for over 20 years and succumbed to a long illness.

J. C. Gaston Fontaine, Law '17, now of Ottawa, has been appointed a notary public for the province of Ontario.

The marriage was quietly solemnized at Ottawa on December 9 of Miss Lillian May Campbell, Arts '12, daughter of Mrs. W. J. Campbell, and Dr. Johnston O'Neill, Sci. '09, of Ottawa. Dr. and Mrs. O'Neill will take up residence in the Aylmer Apartments, Ottawa.

Lieut. Douglas V. White, son of Dr. W. W. White, Arts '85, Med. '86, St. John, N.B., has been awarded the Military Cross.

Grads. Re-Union at Halifax.

McGill graduates at Halifax, N.S., recently held a re-union, starting with a dinner at the Queen's Head Hotel, and ending at the Majestic Theatre, where the McGill colours were much in evidence. Among those who attended were: A. H. Chisholm, Sci. '17; Lt. E. W. Timmerman, Sci. '18; C. H. Wright, Sci. '05; Lt. J. H. Summerskill, Sci. '14; J. M. Finlayson, Sci. '08; Sub-Lt. C. J. Jarlison, Sci. '11; Lt. C. M. Pitts, Sci. '14; J. J. Macdonald, Sci. '11; C. K. Ives, Arts '97; A. T. Bone, Sci. '16; Lt. H. A. Messervy, Sci. '14; H. L. Bronson, Yale '00 (formerly of teaching staff); M. Chisholm, Med. '79; P. C. Macdonald, Med. '06; H. R. Macdonald, Med. '06; Eng. Sub-Lt. D. de C. Ross, Sci. '17.

HIGHER EDUCATION FOR WOMEN IN JAPAN.

The higher education of women in Japan has made a start, small, but promising when one realizes how quickly an idea moves in Japan, once it gets started. Japan, to be sure, still holds to the belief that nowhere, outside the home, should women and men work together for a common end. But it remains to be seen if the idea that higher education improves the capabilities of woman at home will not lead, there as elsewhere, to the discovery that her capabilities are not quite so limited as has been supposed. Then comes the new order of things in which the co-operation of women with men in business is taken as an everyday matter; and in Japan higher education will be justified in shouting "Banzai!"

our staff has joined us, so it will not be so hard. We are not much to look at these days, but we can work. The washing is an awful problem. We have had some beautiful weather, clear and cold, but the rain has started in, so we shall probably have a siege of it now. However, nothing could be worse than the winter in Belgium, but so far we have had enough fuel to keep the stoves going. The holes in our house have been patched up and the windows pasted over with paper where the glass is missing, so we feel that we are in luxury, being able to keep both dry and warm. We are in St. Quentin and living in the remains of a real house—we each have a room and there is a dining room; we have a good kitchen stove in the dining room, so our food can be kept warm when we are late for meals, a regular occurrence. The stove we found in the underground passage at Le Quesnel. It had been used by the First Canadian division, and we feel most grateful to them for having left it. In each of our bedrooms we have small stoves that we found in the houses about here; whatever we needed in the way of furniture, we got from the ruined houses or from the streets or from the trenches near by. Most of the things had to be mended, for what the Boches did not take away with them they destroyed. However, this place has escaped better than some of the others we have been in, for

There will be a meeting of the Delta Sigma Society on Wednesday, Dec. 18, at 2.15. The business of this meeting is the Senior-Junior Debate, on the subject: "Resolved, That it would be desirable that the International Peace Conference adopt the formula, 'The Freedom of the Seas'—Freedom of the Seas to mean exemption from capture or detention of all merchantmen and goods except contraband of war." The Seniors, represented by Miss Elizabeth Monk and Miss Louie MacDonald, will uphold the affirmative side of the argument. The negative will be maintained by Miss Jean Nichol and Miss Dorothy Mawdsley.

STUDENTS PRESENT PETITION.

The students of the University of Porto Rico have presented a petition to the Legislature asking it to amend the memorial to President Wilson and the American Congress so as to demand complete independence as the only status compatible with the ideals and interests of Porto Rico. The petition states that the action of the students is based on President Wilson's speeches promising self-determination to small nations.

they did not have time to do their work as thoroughly as they usually do. Unfortunately the beautiful old church of the twelfth century is a mass of ruins. I think we are getting very near the end, and if peace is not signed before Christmas, at least the fighting will be over.

"The hospital is in tents; we have three tents with twenty-four beds in each, so it keeps me going.

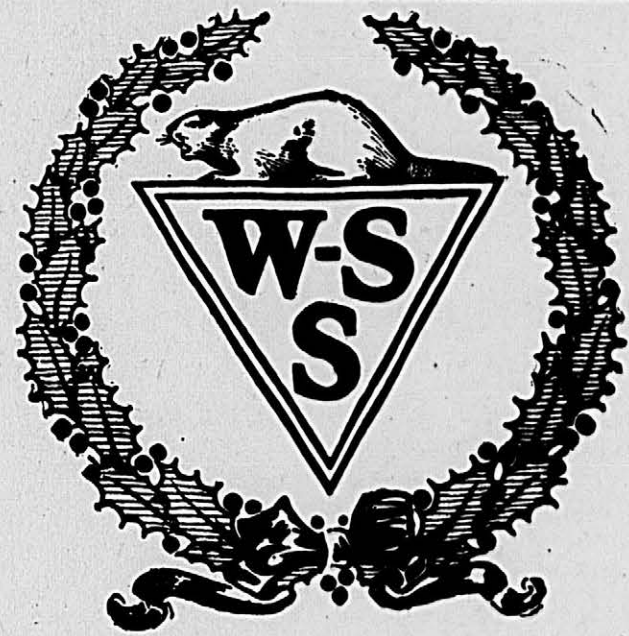

"We were the first nursing unit to cross the Hindenburg line as far as I know, at least the first French one.

"I have been on night duty for three weeks and have one more week to go."

SCHOLARSHIP TROPHY AWARDED

The Interscholastic Scholarship Trophy first offered by the Harvard chapter of Phi Beta Kappa in 1915, for the school the boys from which made the best record at the entrance examinations to Harvard College, has been awarded this year to the Country Day School for Boys at Newton, Massachusetts. The award is based on the number of boys attaining the honour list in proportion to the total number of candidates admitted. Last year Boston Latin won the competition, and the previous year, Centre High School of Springfield. The boys whose fine scholarship brought Country Day School the prize are: Donald Pomeroy Ferguson, Frederic Theodor Pratt and Roger Sumner.

Give a WAR-SAVINGS STAMP for Christmas!

BUY a War-Savings Stamp at any Money-Order Post Office, Bank, or other place displaying the War-Savings Stamp sign. This will cost $4.00. At the same time ask for a Certificate and affix the W.S.S. thereto.

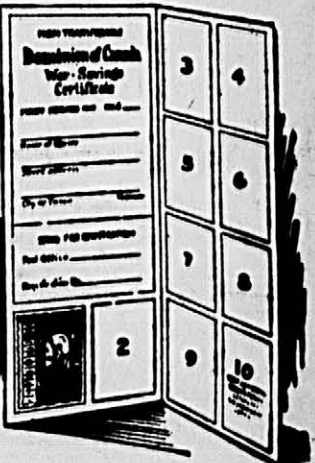

Fill in the name and address of your friend, of your boy, girl, or other person for whom your gift is intended, and there you have the most desirable of gifts!

You might say, in presenting it, "It is worth four dollars in cash right now at any post office, but I advise you to hold it because it is the promise of the Dominion of Canada to pay you Five Dollars on the first day of 1924."

"This is a 'baby bond', earning interest, and you can make it a bigger 'bond' by saving up and buying more stamps. It is easy to buy W.S.S. because for every 25 cents you save you can get a THRIFT Stamp, 16 of which on a Thrift Card will be exchanged for a W.S.S."

After January, 1919, the purchase price of W.S.S. increases 1 cent a month—the interest earned. The cash surrender value increases also. Certificates with one or more stamps can be registered at the Post Office against loss by fire, theft, or other cause.

A gift of a War-Savings Stamp is more than a gift of cash. It may well mean the commencement of habits of Thrift, to the great benefit of both the individual and the country at large.
